

DOCTOR'S DOG GOT $8 OF HIS PAY AS A DISHWASHER

Kept Only $2 For His Needs,
Mystery Physician Gave Pets Best of Care.

Out of his pay of $18 a week as dishwasher in Shanley's Restaurant, Dr. Harry E. Campbell, once a wealthy physician of Pittsburgh, who gave up his practice for his mental occupation in New York and who died Sunday night at No. 305 West 16th Street, spent $8 for his room, $8 more for the care of two of his pet dogs, got his meals free at the restaurant, and with the balance of $3 supplied himself clothes, recreation and cared for his other needs. According to the police, this budget arrangement is the most unusual they have yet seen.

E. E. Offendorf kept two of the prize St. Bernards at No. 313 West 53d Street, where he has kennels in a rear court.

"Dr. Campbell used to come here every morning at 5 o'clock," said the kennel proprietor. "He brought bones from the restaurant. He fed his pets and played with them for an hour and then left. Since his death the dogs have undoubtedly missed him. They have lost their joy in life, and, although possessing big appetites, can scarcely be induced to eat."

Both dogs were blue ribbon holders in prize events, said Offendorf, who added that Dr. Campbell had still another St. Bernard that is famous in dog show events here. He does not know who has the third dog.

The police to-day said that Dr. Campbell's body is still unclaimed. They notified a cousin and a young woman believed to be his step-daughter. They will keep the body for ten days more, awaiting some one to claim it.

Dr. Campbell's wife and daughter, the police are informed, are now in Europe. They went there before the war for the purpose of finishing the girl's education, and the doctor soon after gave up his profession for his job as dishwasher in New York, leaving his work only once when he again took up his profession in answer to a public need for help in the influenza epidemic in Pittsburgh.

SHOOTS WIFE, KILLS SELF.

Woman Wounded in Effort to Save
Husband From Suicide.

Apparently in an effort to prevent her husband from using against himself a gun regarding whose possession neighbors heard them quarreling to-day, Mrs. Alice Breslin, twenty-nine, was shot in the neck by her husband, John, a truckman, twenty-nine, in the furnished room they occupied at No. 144 South Fourth Street, Brooklyn. Breslin then fired a shot into his own temple, from which he died as he and his wife were being borne to Williamsburg Hospital in an ambulance. She is in a serious condition.

Neighbors said they knew little of the Breslins, other than that they have a son, William, five, who lives with a relative. Breslin, neighbors told the police, came home intoxicated early to-day, bringing with him liquor and a gun. Sounds issuing from the Breslin room, the neighbors declared, indicated a long controversy. "Give me the gun!" Mrs. Breslin was heard to say. "No, I'm going to use it now!" her husband shouted.

Two shots followed.

The answer!

YOUR taste never tires of Camels! No matter how liberally you light up, Camels are always refreshing! That's because they have the quality and because they are made to meet your taste! The longer you smoke Camels the better you like them—they are so unusual, so different from any cigarette you have ever tried!

First of all, Camels are an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos. Camels blend, backed by quality, gives Camels their remarkable mellow mildness never before attained in a cigarette. Yet, Camels have delightful body that is satisfying to the most exacting smoker!

And, you can mark it down on this spot that you will greatly prefer Camels blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight! You'll find Camels a revelation—no matter how you compare them with any cigarette in the world at any price!

Make a note, too, that Camels leave no unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste nor unpleasant cigaretty odor.

Just as soon as you really know Camels and their quality you will realize why we do not offer coupons or premiums. Camels certainly tell you their own story in a mighty convincing way!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes; or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.
